Introduction

This research guide is an introduction to international practice resources available on Westlaw, organized by topic. It will give you basic tips for retrieving materials from Australia, Canada, the European Union, Hong Kong, and the United Kingdom in the following areas of law:

- Bankruptcy and Insolvency
- Business and Commercial
- Finance and Banking
- Global Competition and Antitrust
- Insurance
- Intellectual Property
- International Commercial Arbitration
- Securities

By modeling your own search requests on the examples in this guide, you can quickly retrieve the information you need. For more information on specific research topics, visit west.thomson.com/westlaw/guides.

Retrieving a Document by Citation

If you know a document's citation, you can quickly retrieve it by using the Find service. Type the citation in the Find this document by citation text box in the left frame of a tabbed page, or click Find at the top of any page to display the Find a Document page. Then type a citation in the Find this document by citation text box and click Go. To print the document immediately after it is retrieved, select the and Print check box.

Selecting a Publication Country

The abbreviations used for U.S. publications may also be used for non-U.S. publications. Therefore, you need to specify the jurisdiction from which you want to retrieve documents by selecting a country from the Choose Publication Country drop-down list at the Find a Document page.

Using the Publications List

Click Publications List in the left frame of the Find a Document page to view a complete list of publications and abbreviations that can be used with Find. Use the Search feature to search the publications list for specific words or phrases. Then click the name or abbreviation of a publication to display its Find template. Modeling your own search requests on the examples in this guide will help you research legal issues and retrieve other types of information helpful to practitioners.

Click Publications List to view a complete list of publications and abbreviations that can be used with Find.

Specify the jurisdiction from which you want to retrieve documents by selecting a country from the drop-down list.

Overview
Publications List
Find Tips

Choose Publication Country:
US - United States

To retrieve a document when you know its citation, type the citation in the Enter citation text box and click GO. You do not need to include brackets or use extra spacing, capitalization or punctuation. For example, you can type [2000] 2 Hk 312, 2000 2 hkIRD 312 or 2000 2hkIRD312 to retrieve the same document.

Find Citation Templates

If you are uncertain about the correct citation format for your Find request, you use a fill-in-the-blank template. To display a template, type the publication abbreviation in the Enter citation text box and click GO. For example, type cmf in the Enter citation text box and click GO to retrieve the citation format for document Common Markets Law Reports. You can retrieve the following types of document by typing their citations:

- Case Law
- Statutes
- Regulations
- Topical Material
- Legal Practice Materials
- Law Reviews and Bar Journals
- Treatises
- Newspapers and Magazines

Searching for Documents

Accessing a Database

There are several ways to access a database on Westlaw:

- Use the Search or Resources section of a tabbed page, which provides quick access to databases relating to a specific topic or jurisdiction.
- Use the Westlaw Directory, which contains a list of all databases on Westlaw. Click Directory at the top of any page. Browse the databases in the right frame by clicking the links, or use the Search function to search for a specific database. Click a database name to display the Search page for that database.
- Type a database identifier (e.g., hk-cs-all), all or part of the database name, or a description of the database in the Search these databases text box in the left frame of a tabbed page and click Go. To access multiple databases simultaneously, type up to 10 database identifiers separated by commas or semicolons in the text box and click Go.

Choosing a Search Method

Westlaw provides two search methods, Natural Language and Terms and Connectors, so you can search in the way that is most effective for you. When you access a database, the Search page is displayed with your default search method selected. To select a different search method, click the appropriate tab.

Searching with Natural Language

Natural Language is a search method that allows you to use plain English to retrieve relevant documents. For example, to retrieve U.K. cases regarding whether contributory negligence is a defense to fraudulent misrepresentation, access the United Kingdom Reports All database (UK-RPTS-ALL), click the Natural Language tab, and type is contributory negligence a defense to fraudulent misrepresentation in the Search text box.

Natural Language searching is available in most Westlaw databases.

Searching with Terms and Connectors

Many of the search examples in this guide use the Terms and Connectors search method, which allows you to enter a query that consists of key terms from your issue and connectors specifying the relationship between those terms. For example, you can specify that your terms appear in the same sentence or the same paragraph. Terms and Connectors searching is available in all Westlaw databases.

Restricting Your Search by Field

Almost all documents on Westlaw are composed of several parts called fields. Rather than searching entire documents, you can restrict your search to one or more fields. For example, the key-words field in Hong Kong case law databases and the descriptive-text field in United Kingdom case law databases contain a summary of the legal issues addressed in the case. Many of the search examples in this guide use field restrictions. For a complete list of the field restrictions available for a specific database, click the database Scope icon (  ).
